Harlan J. Berk, Ltd. has presented an innovation in antiquities and numismatics for some time now. The system is simple. When you want an antiquity or coin in the sale, just bid the estimated price by phone, fax, web site, email or post. We will send you the antiquity or coin immediately. No waiting for the closing of the sale. Any and all antiquities or coins not sold before the closing date will be sent to the highest bidder on August 16, 2012.

EXAMPLE—You bid estimate on an item valued at $100.00 and if your bid is the 1st to reach us, you will receive the item immediately. If on the other hand, you bid $75.00 on the same item and are still the high bidder at the end of the sale, the item will be mailed to you after the closing date, August 16, 2012.

If you are ever in the area, stop in to see us! Of course, it's best to call first. Harlan J. Berk, Ltd. reserves the right to refuse any bids.

Obv: Phalanthos on dolphin l., hair blowing in breeze, accentuating speed of ride; cockle shell below; Rx: Four-spoked wheel. The obverse of this coin is quite remarkable. Phalanthos appears to be having the ride of his life on the dolphin. His hair is blowing straight back from the speed of the leap of the dolphin, which must be 30 feet into the air. The exuberance and excitement that this coin captures is remarkable. The cockleshell is beautifully formed and part of the ornate border frames the lower portion of this coin. These coins are usually badly misstruck and off-center. This is one of the best examples of this series and type. EF9500

Obv: Head of roaring lion with tongue protruding right, one paw outstretched. Rx: ΧΕ-ΡΑ Facing bull's head, all within incuse square. Ex Gemini IX, Jan. 2012, lot 144. Coins of Carian Chersonesos are extremely rare, only about twenty specimens being recorded from all dies. The city is known from the Athenian tribute lists, but the name Χερσονήσος - peninsula - could mean the Cnidian peninsula as a whole, thus confusing the evidence from other sources. Even worse, the ancient sources are contradictory as to whether or not there was a city by the name Chersonesos on the Cnidian peninsula. In any case the Chersonesos responsible for our coin was undoubtedly part of the Cnidian trade area, having adopted both the Cnidian obverse type and the Cnidian coin standard. Toned aEF.....5500

Obv: [D]IVA AVGVS - TA - MARCIANA Bust draped r. wearing stephane, the hair massed at top and back of head in a braided coil, row of pearls on neck from necklace or forming the neckline of dress. Rx: CONSECRATIO Eagle with spread wings flying upwards, body l. but head turned r., holding scepter in both talons. Ex CNG 53, 15 March 2000, lot 1555. As we learn from the Ostian Fasti, Marciana died and was consecrated on 29 August 112. This reverse type of Diva Marciana has previously been oriented, for example in Cohen's illustration (p. 100), the plates of the BM and Paris catalogues and of Woytek's MIR, and every auction catalogue illustration in CoinArchives Pro, as though the scepter held by the eagle formed a horizontal groundline. Assuming this orientation, however, (1) the eagle leans so far forward that if standing on the scepter he would have to grip it very tightly to avoid falling on his breast, (2) the eagle's right wing sometimes passes under the scepter so is partly depicted in the "exergue", a very unusual phenomenon, and (3) the die axis, at least on our coin, on a similar denarius we had several years ago, and on the sestertius of the same type catalogued in Triton VIII, 11 Jan. 2004, lot 1016, would be an abnormal 7-8h, one and a half-two hours or 45-60 degrees off the expected 6h. It seems likely that the type actually shows the eagle FLYING UPWARDS with SLANTED scepter; the eagle is then not in danger of toppling over, the overlap of the scepter and his wing loses its strangeness, and the die axis becomes the expected 6h. Excellent portrait. Flan crack at 2h. Pleasant toned VF.....	3850

Rx: TR POT VII - COS II The Loyalty of the Army, right breast bare, sacrificing l. at altar and holding legionary eagle. The legend engraver ran out of space on the obverse and had to impose the letters IL of FIL onto the Caesar's neck. Since the personification on reverse clearly has female breasts, she cannot be the male Genius of the Army, as traditionally described. 508. COMMODUS ; 177-192 AD, Denarius, Rome, 185 AD, 3.17g. BM-160 note, C-141 (Paris, 15 Fr.), RIC-110d. Obv: M COMM ANT - P FEL AVG BRIT Head laureate r. Rx: FID EXERC in exergue, P M TR P X IMP VII - COS III P P around, Commodus on platform addressing three soldiers who hold standards topped by eagles. This type is scarce altogether, and considerably rarer in 185 (TR P X COS III) than 186 (TR P XI COS V): no specimens in Reka Devnia hoard with this date, and with this obverse legend not in BM by 1968. In the reverse type Commodus addresses the soldiers who have come from Britain to Rome to accuse his praetorian prefect Perennis of treason. Adlocutio types normally appear on sestertii and apart from this one time under Commodus were almost never compressed onto the small flan of a denarius. 597. EGYPTIAN STEATITE SCARAB, 2nd Intermediate Period, ca. 1786-1590 BC. The thorax and wings of this rather crudely fashioned scarab are decorated with uneven hatching, and the head and legs are only summarily carved. On the bottom, the lower register depicts two falcons wearing crowns on either side of an ankh hieroglyph. Loops over their backs may represent the hieroglyphs sa or shen, both symbols of protection. The upper register is decorated with two large ma'at feathers on either side of an upside-down nefer hieroglyph and two small ankhs. L. 5/8" (1.6 cm). 400
598. EGYPTIAN STEATITE SCARAB, 2nd Intermediate Period, ca. 1786-1590 BC. The top of this scarab is simply yet finely carved, with the separation of the thorax and wing cases indicated by fine double lines, while the beetle's legs are only summarily indicated on the sides. The bottom is decorated with the image of a man wearing a short kilt and holding a lotus blossom. In front of the man are two hieroglyphs, a bird and the hill-country sign. These two hieroglyphs may be read wer khaset "ruler of the foreign land" but are open to other interpretations. L. 3/4" (2 cm). 450
599. EGYPTIAN STEATITE COWRIE SHELL, Second Intermediate Period, ca. 1786-1590 BC. Cowrie scaraboids were carved in imitation of shells that the ancient Egyptians found on the shores of the Red Sea. The flat base

- of this particular specimen is decorated with the image of a man in a short kilt holding a very long stemmed lotus blossom. Two cobras surround him protectively, while a round-bottomed basket fills the remaining empty space. L. 7/8" (2 cm). 425
600. EGYPTIAN UNGLAZED STEATITE SCARAB, New Kingdom, ca. 1567-1085 BC. The underside of this scarab is decorated with the image of a sphinx facing an upreared cobra. The sphinx's head is that of a pharaoh wearing a striped headdress cinched in back, while its lion's tail terminates in another cobra. The Egyptian pharaoh was often depicted as a lion attacking his enemies; the cobra was a protective goddess that spewed fiery venom against the king's foes. The top of the scarab is very simply carved, with two nicks indicating the separation of the beetle's thorax and abdomen. L. 3/4" (2 cm). 450
601. EGYPTIAN STEATITE COWROID, New Kingdom, ca. 1550-1070 BC. This steatite amulet, carved in the approximate shape of a cowry shell, a symbol of fertility, carries a composition inspired by Hyksos era amulets, including bent floral stalks, crocodiles, and tiny glyphs that have been carved into the center, having the appearance of a name enclosed within a cartouche, which would have been a regular feature of a Hyksos composition amulet. The crocodiles and floral stalks dominate here, conveying the intention of an amulet offering a general "best wishes" meaning, with amuletic suggestions of health and fertility conveyed by the cowroid shape. L. 5/8" (1.6 cm). 375
602. EGYPTIAN STEATITE SCARAB, New Kingdom, ca.1296-1070 BC or later re-issue. A steatite scarab with traces of green glaze with wide proportions, well-carved legs and head, and with diagonal lines marking the corners of the wing cases. Reverses to a composition featuring the king, wearing a crown, and carrying the crook and flail, symbolic of rulership. He is flanked on either side by a hippopotamus, each in opposing positions. The hippopotamus, often a symbol of regeneration in other contexts, is here more likely a representation of chaos and disorder, which the king is suppressing in his sacred role as the defender of Egypt against these evil forces. An amuletic scarab in which the king's protection from the forces of evil is magically extended to the owner. L. 11/16" (1.7 cm). 650
603. EGYPTIAN LARGE FAIENCE SCARAB, Late Period, ca. 715-330 BC. A large pale green faience scarab with nice detail. Pierced for suspension or sewing into the mummy wrappings. H. 13/16" L. 1 5/8" (2 x 4 cm). 750
604. PHOENICIAN EGYPTIANIZING PHOENICIAN STONE SCARAB, ca. 550-500 BC. Classical Phoenician scarabs were made in Phoenicia in the period of the Achaemenid empire and represent the last major production of scarabs in antiquity. Found in Syria, this particular example has on its underside a worn depiction of a winged griffin. The griffin sits on its haunches, facing right, with its wings sweeping up over its back. Drilled lengthwise for stringing. L. 5/8" (1.6 cm). 1500
605. EGYPTIAN STEATITE DUCK SCARABOID, New Kingdom, 1550-1070 BC. Small blue-green-glazed steatite duck scaraboid. The top of this scaraboid is not fashioned as the usual beetle, but rather as a sleeping duck that is resting its head upon its feathered back. The feathers of the wings and tail are very carefully indicated. The base is inscribed with the name of the god "Amun-Re." The empty spaces at either end of the base are occupied by baskets, often used on scarabs as a space-filler because of their curved bottoms. Ex Midwest Collection formed before 1967. L. 3/8" (1 cm). 1250
606. EGYPTIAN FAIENCE CUP OF RAMESSES II, New Kingdom, 1550-1070 BC. Pale green faience with painted glyphs which translates, "Usermaatre Setepenre (phenomen of Ramesses II), beloved of Sokar." Ex 91st Buy or Bid Sale, Harlan J. Berk, Ltd. 25 June 1996, lot 858. H. 2 1/4" (5.7 cm) . . . 2800

It retains some features of New Kingdom ushabtis but is done in a medium more common in the Third Intermediate Period. Namely, it is in a light blue faience with painted black detailing. It has a much more unusually elongated body and the wig is of a more unusual style. Rare type. L. 3 5/8" (9 cm). 500
608. EGYPTIAN GREEN SCHIST IMPLEMENT OR WEIGHT FOUND AT BALLABYSH, 19th Dynasty, 1298-1187 BC. A smooth green schist weight or implement. Excavated at Ballabys by The Egyptian Exploration Fund. 613. EGYPTIAN BRONZE AMULET CASE, ca. 715-330 BC. This amulet case, sometimes called a small sarcophagus, depicts two Egyptian lizards over a hollow bronze box. Thick original green reddish and earthen patina. L. 1 3/4" (4.5 cm). 900
614. EGYPTIAN BRONZE URAEUS AMULET, Late Period, ca. 715-330 BC. The cobra was the sacred image of Wadjyt, a patron deity in the Delta, who came to represent Lower Egypt. This amulet is recessed for glass or stone inlay. Ex Midwest Collection formed before 1967. L. 1 1/2" (4 cm). 1250
615. EGYPTIAN LARGE FAIENCE DJED PILLER, Late Period, ca. 715-330 BC. Extraordinarily fine and large pale blue-green faience djed-pillar. Although the djed-pillar is attested from earliest times, exactly what it represents is uncertain. It may be a stylized tree trunk with the branches chopped off, or it may represent the four pillars that support the sky superimposed upon one another. Ultimately the djed-pillar was considered to represent Osiris' backbone. As a hieroglyph, djed meant "stability," and this amulet therefore imbued its owner with stability and endurance. Chapter 155 of the Book of the Dead prescribes placement of a djed-pillar amulet at the throat of the mummy, to transform the deceased into an "equipped spirit" in the entourage of Osiris. Drilled crosswise through the middle, this amulet would have been sewn onto the bandages of a mummy, either at the throat or elsewhere on the torso. One of the largest we have ever handled. H. 4 1/8" (10.4 cm). 2250
616. EGYPTIAN FAIENCE HEAD OF HARPOCRATES, Late Period, ca. 715-330 BC. Harpocrates, the young Horus, is portrayed with the typical "sidelock of youth". Horus was the god of sky and divine kingship. The ears were drilled as the piece most likely was adorned with gold earrings which have been lost in antiquity. Wonderful detail throughout and very well balanced. Mounted on white marble base. H. 1 3/4". Mounted 3 1/2" (4.4 and 9 cm). 6750
617. EGYPTIAN FAIENCE HEAD OF PTAH, Late Period, ca. 715-330 BC. Ptah was the chief god of the ancient city of Memphis. He was a creator god who brought all things to being by thinking of them with his mind and saying their names with his tongue. He was unique amongst Egyptian creation gods in that his methods were intellectual, rather than physical. Ptah was also the patron god of skilled craftsmen and architects. One of the better detailed pieces we have seen. Mounted on a white marble base. H. 1 1/8". Mounted 2 3/4" (3 and 7 cm). 3250

Groups of these would have been placed on the chest of a mummy along with other vital amulets. The scarab beetle made it a successful spiritual transformation into the afterlife of bliss. L. 3/4" (2 cm). 400

622. MAGNA GRAECIA APULIAN GNATHIAN SPOUT TAILED ASKOS, ca. 300 BC. The askos, which takes its form from the bag-like wine skin, is a not too common shape in South Italian pottery. This piece is even more unusual for its two spouts, one at the front and a small nozzle behind the handle for pouring a very fine stream. The piece is painted with a white theatrical mask of a courtesan in profile (type XC) with the elaborate details defined in yellow paint. Two attachment ribbons hang from the mask and a long red scarf with yellow fringe detailing flanks it. Masks of this type were worn by actors playing hetaira, professional girlfriends, who were favorite characters in Middle Comedy. Depictions of these beautiful women seem to have been popular souvenirs of the theatre. This unusual piece is intact and well preserved. The bird itself stands on an octagonal plinth with its colored glass inlaid wings outstretched and its tail and head held high. Its very lavish and ornate decoration is very typical of art from the Rattanakosin and Bangkok periods. This is very large for its type and retains much of its original lacquer. 641. COLONIAL PARTIE OCCIDENTALE DE LA NOUVELLE FRANCE OU DU CANADA BY: BELLIN / HOMANN, 1755 (dated). This is a very rare and influential map of the Great Lakes region during the time of French colonial possession. Originally engraved by Jaques Bellin in 1745, the plate for this map was acquired and re-issued by Johann Baptist Homann in 1755 in response to European interest in the French and Indian War which started one year earlier in 1754. The map integrates the work of French fur trader and Explorer Sieur la Verendrye and the explorer / missionary Father Pierre de Charlevoix. From Verendrye's journals came the placement of numerous indian villages and nations as well as some of the form of the Great Lakes and their attached river systems. Charlevoix can be referred to as the origin for the fictitious Lake Superior islands, Phillipeaux, Pontchartrain, and St. Anne. This was the first of many maps to include the famous ghost islands of Lake Superior which perplexed explorers for nearly 100 years. Throughout the map are numerous French forts and missions including Fort Frontenac, Fort Niagara, Mission Francois Xavier, and Port de Checagou, which is now the site of present day Chicago. The lower right hand section of this map displays a common ploy used to flatter his royal patrons in Paris. The proportional size of the English colonial holdings in New York, Virginia, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania are reduced in an attempt to metaphorically advance the supremacy of French control in North America. Map is in A condition with full margins and some minor scattered staining.. 21.25 x 16.75 inches (54 x 42.5 cm). 3500
642. UNITED STATES GENERAL CHARTE VON DEN VEREINIGTEN NORDAMERICANISCHEN FREISTAATEN... BY: C.C. WEILAND, 1821 (dated). This is a fine example of Weiland's map of the United States. This first edition of the map follows Lewis and Clark's map, but differs in that the Fraser river does not appear and the entire Columbia is present. Much more physical, geographic detail is given to the western U.S. than the east, with the western part of the country shown beginning at the 42nd parallel and extending north into present day British Columbian Canada. Chicago is shown just north of Indiana and northeast of Illinois within the Northwestern Territory. Missouri is shown as a state, which is worth noting since it became a state the very same year. This map was one of the first European maps to recognize the new state formed as a result of the viciously debated Missouri Compromise. Throughout the western half of the map are a number of indian tribes along with their estimated populations. Texas is shown with a very elongated panhandle and Chaps d'Asile, a colony of Bonapartist refugees founded in 1818. Spanish troops dispatched from San Antonio drove the people out of the colony which was abandoned within the year. Very few maps include the Champ d'Asile colony. Map is in A condition with some minor staining and a few tear repairs on the reverse.. 26 x 19 inches (66 x 48.35 cm). 1850
643. COLONIAL A NEW MAP OF THE ENGLISH EMPIRE IN AMERICA... BY: JOHN SENEX, 1719 (dated). This is one of the earliest English maps to focus on the British Empire in North America west to the Mississippi. It features the areas of Virginia, New York, Maryland, New Jersey, Carolina, New England, Pennsylvania, New Foundland, and New France. There is a mountain range shown to run from central Florida north to the tip of Michigan. Within the oddly shaped Michigan peninsula reads "On the top of these mountains is a plain like a terrace walk about 200 miles in length." A couple of interesting feature worth noting include a copper mine located in the area of present day Chicago and the border of Pennsylvania extending across into French occupied Canada, which was a common practice of map makers used to please Royalty of their respective countries. The map also includes two insert maps, one of Boston Harbor and Massachusetts Bay, and another titled "A General Map of the Coasts and Isles of Europe, Africa, and America." Map is in A condition with some restoration to the reverse of the map.. 23.5 x 20 inches (59.7 x 50.8 cm). 2500
